Dear, You will have received an email with the revisions required by the reviewers. We need you to send us two essential documents: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. A document that includes changes marked in yellow or in a clearly identifiable manner, without the names of the authors. The same document in its final version, with all the details necessary for its definitive layout, and without any marks or track changes. Furthermore, I take this opportunity to remind you of the formal requirements that must be met for the publication of your article: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. ▶ Dear the editor of RISE Hipatia Thank you very much for the feedback conveyance regarding the reviewers' comments on our paper. We appreciate the revisions you have made so far. However, after careful review, we have identified a few critical areas that require further attention before your article can be considered for publication.

PM

Firstly, it is essential that the changes you have made maintain coherence with the rest of the article. For instance, in the section "Perceptions of Religious Education," the addition of a new paragraph results in the repetition of the idea that "Religious education is highly valued in Indonesia." We recommend revising the article to avoid redundancy and to ensure a seamless flow of ideas throughout the manuscript.

Additionally, please note that the total length of your article must not exceed 8,000 words, including the abstract, notes, references, and appendices. Your current submission exceeds this limit, so it will be necessary to make reductions in length while ensuring the integrity and clarity of your arguments are maintained.

These revisions are imperative for the manuscript to be considered for publication. We look forward to receiving your updated submission.

We need you to send us two essential documents:

1. A document that includes changes marked in yellow or in a clearly identifiable manner, without the names of the authors. If you see fit, you can provide a table detailing the reviewers' comments and the corresponding adjustments, indicating the relevant paragraph and page.
2. The same document in its final version, with all the details necessary for its definitive layout, and without any marks or track changes.

Please do not hesitate to reach out if you have any questions or need further clarification.

Best regards,

Via this email, we would like to submit our latest revision made according to the details of the reviewer's comments. In the revised file, all parts revised are highlighted in yellow. All parts compressed (with the purpose to avoid words exceeding 8,000 words) are highlighted in blue.
